World First Training Program for House Relocation is launched

The world's first dedicated house relocation training program has been launched.

The home relocation market is a largely untapped marketplace in Australia, that has the potential to have a positive impact of home affordability for tens of thousands of Australians every year and make a substantial contribution to the sustainability outcomes for Australia.

Home Relocation halves the cost of prefabricated homes and is around 30% - 50% cheaper than the cost of building a home. So, if it is done right, relocating a house can save you hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Founder of House Relocation Marketplace, Simone Ferrier said we have bundled up a lot of value for our members to enjoy as part of their training package, including:

- Access to our exclusive one-hundred-page House Relocation guide, that you cannot buy anywhere else.
- Access to our online training program that you can complete at your own pace. You can binge watch each module back-to-back and repeat sections and modules as often as you like.
- Lifetime access to our private House Relocation Facebook community. A safe and supportive online space where you can ask questions and get help.
- Unlimited access to all new stock of houses for relocation, before anyone else does.
- Exclusive access to house relocation packages from the professionals.
- Access to heavily discounted building materials.
- Access to a directory of tradespeople and specialists who are ready to help you get your project underway.

“House Relocation Marketplace is for anyone who wants to learn about House Relocation, not matter how much or how little renovating experience you have,” said Simone.

“Our marketplace is for anyone who is thinking about house relocation, but doesn’t know where to start. And if by chance you happen to be half way through a house relocation, you are still going to learn so much to get your project finished.”

Simone said all you need is an internet connection and you can access the House Relocation Marketplace and start study online today.

“House Relocation Marketplace is 100% online. Our aim is to reduce waste, one sustainably relocated house at a time,” said Simone.

A training membership to House Relocation Marketplace is AUD $900.
